Welcome to the 5th Global Titanium Feedstock Conference 2016

In 2015, China's ilmenite supply and demand declined for the first time. The supply of imported ilmenite fell with about 7.5%, meantime the output of the biggest ilmenite origin resources- Panzhihua area, fell with 9% in 2015 YOY.

At the end of 2015, Chinese proposed "Thirteen Five Plan" to adjust the industrial and economic structure. Will those series of changes make impacts on China's titanium market production capacity?

2016 Global feedstock conference will focus on the Chinese economy into the new normal after the emergence of changes, Will the future of domestic ore production hit the bottom rebound? Will the titanium downstream continue shrinking under "cut overcapacity" polices? Will the overseas mines seek new opportunities when domestic titanium production declines? Ruidow sincerely invite you to explore the new direction of the Chinese titanium industry during 25-27th, May, 2016 in Nanjing, China.

Themes Include:

- The China economic situation and the development of titanium industry
- New changes of titanium market during the period of economic transformation in China
- The mainstream of the mineral resources development status of (Vietnam, Australia, India, etc.)
- Analysis of new titanium market competitiveness (Mozambique, Senegal)
- Current situation and development trend of titanium industry in Panzhihua
- Titanium market status and development direction of Chengde / Yunnan area
- Titanium market status and development direction of Hainan / Shandong area
- The new direction of comprehensive utilization of titanium resources China.
- China, global titanium dioxide industry trends
- Current situation of titanium salg and its demand for ilmenite
- China sponge titanium / titanium material development and the demand for titanium and rutile
